

Instruction note for IviumSoft regarding Help-function for Windows Vista and Windows 7

Windows Help (WinHlp32.exe) is a Help program that has been included with Microsoft Windows versions starting with the Microsoft Windows 3.1 operating system. However, the Windows Help program has not had a major update for many releases. So Microsoft therefore has stated that, starting with the release of Windows Vista, the Windows Help program will be included anymore as a feature of Windows operating systems.

IviumSoft uses the Windows Help program for the software help. If you want to use or view the IviumSoft 32-bit.hlp files when running under Windows Vista or 7, you must download and install the program (WinHlp32.exe) from the Microsoft Download Center. The download file and a guide on how to install it can be found at the Microsoft Download centre at the following link:
